MICHIGAN LANGUAGE ASSESSMENT

Mission

Michigan Language Assessment helps people achieve their education and career goals by providing trusted English language exams that draw on the expertise of two of the world's leading universities.

Established in 1941, the Michigan English Language Institute was the first full-time intensive course in English as a Foreign Language (EFL) offered on a university campus in the Western Hemisphere.

Michigan Language Assessment has provided American English language assessments for more than 65 years. Our rich history began with the establishment of the English Language Institute (ELI) in 1941 as the first university-based Intensive English Program in the United States and the first language research and teaching program of its kind. The foundation of modern American English language testing began at the ELI. Michigan Exams tradition continues today with modern English language tests that are recognized by universities, education departments and ministries, businesses, and government agencies around the world.

Located in Ann Arbor, Michigan, we offer English language tests for all ages, at all levels of proficiency, for educational and professional purposes.

UM hosted students from 139 countries last year.

UM's International Institute houses 17 centers and programs focused on world regions and global themes.

Founded in 1817, The University of Michigan continues to be one of the top public research universities in North America. With more than 575,000 alumni, the University of Michigan is a well-known and highly-respected presence in higher education and beyond.

In 2010, the testing division of the University of Michigan English Language Institute joined with Cambridge Assessment English to form CaMLA, a non-profit collaboration for the continued production of high quality English language tests. Now known as Michigan Language Assessment, we remain committed to delivering outstanding and reliable assessments and helping English language learners prove their skills to the world.
